India stands at a defining moment. As the world's fifth-largest economy accelerates toward its ambition of becoming a developed nation by 2047, the scale, complexity, and strategic importance of its marine and trade risk landscape have never been greater.

With merchandise trade volumes surging, the Sagarmala programme transforming port infrastructure, and Indian shipping asserting itself on global routes, the demand for sophisticated, responsive, and commercially astute marine and trade risk insurance has never been more urgent or more consequential.

The Indian government's landmark approval of the Bharat Maritime Insurance Pool, backed by US$1.5 billion in funding and a sovereign guarantee, signals the most significant structural shift in India's marine insurance landscape in a generation. Covering Hull and Machinery, Cargo, P&I, and War Risk for Indian flagged or controlled vessels, the BMI Pool is a direct and decisive response to global volatility and geopolitical instability, designed to reduce India's dependency on external insurance providers and build specialised underwriting, claims management, and legal expertise within the country. With over 70% of India's trade by volume and 95% by value moving through maritime routes, the implications for every insurer, broker, cargo owner, and risk manager operating in this space are profound and immediate.

Yet the broader pressures remain real. Geopolitical volatility, disruptions in the Strait of Hormuz, climate-driven cargo losses, evolving regulatory frameworks, and the rapid digitalisation of trade finance are simultaneously creating new exposures and demanding new thinking from every participant in India's marine and trade risk ecosystem.

The India Marine & Trade Risk Insurance Forum 2026 is the country's most senior gathering dedicated exclusively to this critical segment, bringing together India's leading marine insurers, brokers, cargo owners, port operators, logistics providers, and trade financiers to share intelligence, debate solutions, and collectively define what world-class marine and trade risk insurance looks like in the world's most exciting growth market.

The tide is turning.
Be in the room.
